About this booklet

What is Neurodiversity?

Our understanding of neurodiversity and the way we refer to it is personal and evolving. We understand that there are different ideas, thoughts, and definitions that exist to identify the differences that can be referred to as neurodivergence. In this booklet, we have outlined some of the current understanding and this will enable you to consider your own views and preferred language.

Below are a few different website links and videos explaining some of these views and definitions. Please choose the ones you feel are most relevant for you.

We've also included a glossary of terms to help you understand some of the words you will encounter while reading this booklet and later when accessing support.

Use the Glossary
Page 104

The information in this booklet is specifically related to Autism and Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and Developmental Co-ordination Disorder (DCD). It is recognised however that this does not fully represent the neurodivergent community and people who identify with having a different neurotype than those listed may also find the information useful.

We understand that neurodivergent people may experience challenges and need support. This booklet aims to provide the signposting, advice and support that is commonly requested for children or young people, adults and their families.

Autism

A lifelong neurodevelopmental condition that affects how a person communicates with and relates to other people, and the world around them. Being autistic means your brain works in a different way to other people's. Although there are common characteristics, each person's experience of autism is different. Autism is not a medical condition with treatments or a "cure", but some people need support to help them with certain things.

ADHD (Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder)

Attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) is a condition that affects people's behaviour. People with ADHD can seem restless, may have trouble concentrating, and may act on impulse.

Developmental Co-ordination Disorder (DCD) or Dyspraxia

A condition which can affect movement, balance and co-ordination skills. It can also cause difficulties with planning and organising, and may make everyday tasks more difficult to do.

This booklet aims to bring together the different information and advice offered across Coventry and Warwickshire. It has been co-produced by professionals from different organisations, neurodivergent people and their families. It provides useful information about services and support available for those who are diagnosed or who self-identify as neurodivergent and those who care for and support them.

We continuously asked for feedback on how to enhance this booklet, this is version 2.

Please send any comments to disabilitiescommissioning@warwickshire.gov.uk

Preparing for Adulthood

Planning or preparing for adulthood is a term used to describe the period of time in your life when you move from being a child to a young adult. It helps to start thinking about this transition early. If you have an education, health and care plan (EHCP), this preparation should be included in your annual review from year 9.

SEND Support in Education

 The majority of neurodiverse children and young people will access education through a mainstream early years provider, school or college/post-16 provider. The SEND Code of Practice (2015) provides guidance on how SEND is identified and supported in Early years (Chapter 5), Schools (Chapter 6), Further Education (Chapter 7).

It also contains information about reasonable adjustments, “Preparing for Adulthood” and Education Health and Care plans (EHCP).

SEND Code of Practice (2015)

Education settings, including early years providers, schools, and colleges, all have a duty to identify and support children and young people who have or may have SEND. Much of this support will initially come from teachers and staff in the school itself, co-ordinated by a SENCO (Special Educational Needs’ Co-Ordinator). However, there may be times that settings need additional support to help them identify needs or provision.

Both Coventry and Warwickshire Local Authority offer specialist services to settings. Most of these are “traded” services, meaning that the settings pay for them to carry out their work. When discussing your child’s SEND, it may be useful to find out if any of these services will be involved. Schools and colleges do not have to use these services as they can also source their own support from other specialist professionals or organisations.

Every school must also publish a “SEN Information Report” – these must be published on the school’s website and be available to parents and carers.

Please see the glossary on page 106 for explanation of terms such as “Traded Services”

Education, Health and Care Plans (EHC / EHCP)

An Education, Health and Care Plan is for children and young people who need extra educational support over and above what a mainstream setting is expected to provide.

Young people can undertake an Early Health and Care Needs Assessment (EHCNA) and the Local Authority responds with an EHC Plan, which identifies the educational, health and social needs and additional support for each person. Young people aged 16 to 25 can request an assessment themselves.

Elective Home Education

All parents and carers have the option to consider Elective Home Education. This is where a parent or care is responsible for providing education for their child. If you are considering whether this is the best solution for a child, a good place to start is the information provided by the Local Authority's Elective Home Education officer.

Please keep in mind there is no financial support available when you home educate.

Alternative Provision

Some schools will be able to look at alternative provisions for some students. This might be either on a short-term or longer-term basis and there are generally more options for secondary-aged pupils. Alternative provisions are normally used where a pupil cannot attend a mainstream school due to exclusion, medical difficulties or another reason.

Specialist School Provision

A specialist school is a school for children with complex Special educational needs or a disability (SEND). Most children with SEND go to a mainstream school. Some children need to go to a specialist school to meet their needs.

Specialist school provision is only accessible to those pupils with an Education Health and Care Plan (EHCP). This includes all maintained special schools and any non-maintained independent schools. Most specialist provision is provided by the Broad Spectrum special primary and secondary. There are also some Enhanced Resourced Bases (also known as SEND Resourced Provisions) and broad spectrum (also known as generic) provision which are attached to mainstream schools and support young people with communication and interaction needs including autism spectrum conditions and speech, language and communication needs.

Preschool Neurodevelopmental Service

There are two Preschool services, the Warwickshire Preschool Autism Service (WPAS), and the Coventry Neurodevelopmental Pre-school Service.

Neurodevelopmental assessments always includes information from different professionals. The professionals involved will depend on your child's needs but support is always led by one person. Your child's assessment will include:

- A medical check
- A detailed developmental history
- Information about their behaviour, interactions, skills, and development in all environments including home and nursery
- Observations of their play and interactions (this could be via a virtual platform, or face-to-face)

Further assessment maybe required which could be:

- Autism Diagnostic Observation Schedule - an assessment tool carried out in a clinic setting.

Coventry Neurodevelopmental Preschool Service

Referrals can be made by your child's Heath Visitor, Speech and Language Therapist or a professional working with your child. If you are concerned your child might have autism then speak to your child's Health Visitor. The Coventry service has a three-phase assessment process.

- One – Your child's Health Visitor will carry out an Ages and Stages Questionnaire and, if appropriate, a Wellcomm language screen
- Two- Your child's Speech and Language Therapist will assess your child's communication skills and provide you with advice and strategies on how you can support your child
- Three - Once all information has been collected from the team of professionals and they feel your child meets the criteria for assessment they will be seen by a Paediatrician. The Paediatrician will let you know whether your child has autism or not.

Warwickshire Preschool Autism Service (WPAS)

Referrals can be made by any professional working with a child when supported by signed consent from the parent and carer. Information will be requested regarding any services your child is currently accessing. Assessments are offered based on your child's and family's needs.

Further service information can be found on the Warwickshire Preschool Autism Service website, which can be found here.

Pre-Assessment

A telephone appointment clinic service is available while waiting for assessment where you can discuss specific developmental, behavioural concerns with a Neurodevelopmental Practitioner who will give advice and suggest strategies on a 1:1 basis.

School Age Neurodevelopmental Service

The School-Age Neurodevelopmental Team work closely with the Rise colleagues, including Core Specialist Mental Health. They provide assessments for a diagnosis of autism and/or ADHD and DCD as an additional diagnosis. The team includes Speech and Language Therapists, Occupational Therapists and Psychologists, they also have strong links with paediatricians and psychiatrists. Most children and young people may not see all the team, but they may seek advice from other colleagues to help the team to give you the best advice. The team members have a high level of training, expertise and experience in autism and ADHD and we try to help children, young people and their parents and carers to understand and learn how to support their child.

Section 3: Questions and Answers Children and Young People

Parent Carers frequently ask questions about a number of issues. We have collated useful information and advice to help answer these questions

You can access this information and resources, whether you have a diagnosis, you are seeking a diagnosis, identify as neurodivergent, or just exploring.

Feelings and Self Control

Worrying and Anxiety

What can I do to help my anxious child?

What do I do when my child stims to control their anxiety?

My child's mood is affected by anxiety which can lead to physical complaints such as feeling sick.

Anxiety can feel overwhelming and can be triggered by simple things such as an unexpected change in your child's day or routine. Anxiety is made up of thoughts and feelings that can be manifested physically. Examples of this include feeling sick or crying or through observable behaviours such as stimming.

The following resources may help you to understand more about your child's anxiety and give you strategies to support them when they are feeling anxious.

This section includes frequently asked questions about a number of issues. We have collated useful information and advice to help answer these questions. You can access this information and resources, whether you have a diagnosis, you are seeking a diagnosis, identify as neurodivergent, or just exploring.

Behaviour

My child gets very angry and loses their temper.

How can I support my child to regulate their emotions to avoid meltdowns?

My child has difficulty complying with demands.

Behaviours often communicate a need. Children and young people with neurodevelopmental differences or emotional regulation difficulties may not always be able to understand or explain how they are feeling. They may express their feelings in ways that challenge us as parents and carers. We need to be able to take a step back to work out what they might be struggling with so we can best respond and help them.

Mood and Enjoyment

Some children who are neurodivergent may have difficulty in identifying and expressing their feelings. However, all children and young people will go through some big changes in their lives that can affect them in different ways. We may not realise how hard this can be for some children. Flexibility

How can I help my child deal with changes to their routine?

My child does not cope with changes easily without planning or advance information.

My child refuses to do things because of the stress this will cause. (e.g. will not visit a new café, will not go into another area of the school, will not change clothing).

Coping with change can be hard for some children and young people, which may create heightened anxiety where feelings are expressed physically and emotionally.

Offending Behaviour

My child has violent and challenging behaviour.

My child gets violent and hurts people and damages property.

Neurodivergent children may experience high levels of frustration and may struggle with impulse control, which sometimes can result in impulsive and violent behaviour. This may include violence towards family members or damaging property, which can be very distressing for them and those around them.

Neurodivergent children can also sometimes be more vulnerable to negative influences including becoming involved in offending behaviour, or for example, substance misuse.

Friendships

My child struggles to make and keep friends.

Neurodivergent children may find it difficult to initiate and/or maintain social relationships with their peers. This is an area that many neurodivergent children struggle with because of difficulties with following social cues, maintaining eye contact, staying on 'topic' and seeing things from others' points of view. This can be very challenging for them and may feel isolating.

Family Situation

While many children struggle with changes to the family environment and dynamics, children who are neurodivergent may find this even more challenging. This can be due to struggling with flexibility and adapting to changes in environments and relationships.

Warwickshire County Council's family support workers offer a range of workshops that cover common concerns such as eating, sleeping, behaviour and emotions. Parents and carers can book online here:

Eating

My child only eats food of a certain colour/ texture

My child has eating difficulties.

My child says certain foods make them feel sick or queasy.

My child eats unusual items or inedible items.

My child has a restricted diet, what can I do about

It is common for children and young people with Neurodevelopmental differences to have difficulties at mealtimes. These difficulties include not wanting to eat the same food as others, struggling to try new and different foods, as well as limiting the amount of food they eat. There can be a variety of reasons for this including sensory differences, the need for routine, underlying anxiety, and many other more complex factors.

Rise Neurodevelopmental Team’s workshop provides useful advice and strategies on mealtimes:

Motor Skills and Co-ordination

Neurodivergent children and and young people often experience difficulties with day-to-day tasks that require motor skills and co-ordination such as dressing, learning to ride a bike, handwriting and sports. Difficulties with motor skills and co-ordination may not require an assessment and/or diagnosis but helping to develop these skills can really help the child or young person’s self-esteem, confidence and engagement in activities.

Sensory Responses

We all have our own sensory preferences, but we can usually manage these with strategies and choice of environment and activity. However, some sensory preferences can be overwhelming and children and young people with neurodevelopmental differences can often experience sensation more intensely and/or struggle to make sense of it and respond as expected. It is important that people are aware of a child or young person’s sensory preferences so that they can use strategies to change the environment or task, allowing them to fully engage in everyday tasks.

 Going Up!: The No-worries Guide to Secondary School by Jenny Alexander addresses many common anxieties that children have when moving from primary to secondary school.

Connection to Reality

My child has unusual obsessions/personal beliefs e.g. death.

My child hears voices.

My child takes on different personas.

Children and young people can have unusual experiences that can lead to feeling perplexed, confused and hearing voices. It is important to talk to your child to determine whether the voice your child is hearing is inside or outside their head.

This could also include seeing things, jumbled thoughts, and not feeling as though their thoughts are their own. Children and young people may also have thoughts and/or feelings that people are out to harm them or has difficulty working out what is real. This may be due to the individual ruminating to try to process what has happened in the day and replaying certain situations to make sense of them.

I'm struggling to switch off so I can relax and go to sleep.

Why can't I stay asleep?

My irregular sleep patterns are affecting my mood.

How can I get a good night's sleep?

What tips can I use to get to sleep?

People can have difficulty managing and keeping a healthy sleep routine. This may include problems such as falling asleep, staying asleep, frequent or early waking, sleep apnoea (when your breathing stops and starts while you sleep), disrupted sleeping routines and sleep paralysis.

We are aware that many generic sleep strategies may not be helpful for neurodivergent people, so we have included a variety of sleep strategies resources. These can be accessed via the following links:

Eating

I don't like different food textures.

How can I improve my diet?

I worry about eating in front of other people.

I'm worried that I want to make myself sick after eating.

What tips can I use to get to sleep?

People can have difficulty with eating or managing their thoughts and feelings about eating and food. This might involve eating very little and losing weight, having rigid routines around food and eating, binge eating, making themselves sick and/or using laxatives, or have difficulty eating more than a small range of foods and textures of food.

These resources are to help people to find support for problems with eating and attitudes to food. There could be a physical cause for eating problems and weight change so in all cases, please visit your GP for a physical health check and a discussion first.

Glossary

Language used in the booklet	Definitions
ADHD (Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder)	Attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) is a condition that affects people's behaviour. People with ADHD can seem restless, may have trouble concentrating, and may act on impulse. www.nhs.uk/conditions/attention-deficit-hyperactivity-disorder-adhd
Assessment	This is where a person meets a Health Professional and they listen and ask the person about their current difficulties. They may also ask about their past history. They will tell the person if they need to talk to other professionals, before offering something that may help them. This could include arranging for the person being assessed to see someone else who is more specialist. cwrise.com/your-autism-assessment
Assistive Technology	Assistive technology is often used to describe products or systems that support and assist people to perform functions that might otherwise be difficult or impossible.
Autism	A lifelong neurodevelopmental condition that affects how a person communicates with and relates to other people, and the world around them. Being autistic means your brain works in a different way to other people's. Although there are common characteristics, each person's experience of autism is different. Autism is not a medical condition with treatments or a “cure”, but some people need support to help them with certain things. For more information on autism visit the Autism Strategy page 8 www.warwickshire.gov.uk/allageautismstrategy
Autistic Spectrum Disorder	Autism is also referred to as autism spectrum disorder (ASD). Other terms used for autism include autism spectrum condition (ASC) or Asperger’s (this used to be a diagnosis, but is now categorised as autism). Use of the term ‘disorder’ makes many autistic people feel like there is something wrong with them or that they need fixing. The preferred term to use is autism.
Developmental Co-ordination Disorder (DCD) or Dyspraxia	A condition which can affect movement, balance and co-ordination skills. It can also cause difficulties with planning and organising, and may make everyday tasks more difficult to do. dyspraxiafoundation.org.uk/about-dyspraxia
Diagnosis	A decision about what a particular illness or condition is, made by a clinician after an assessment.

Language used in the booklet	Definitions
Diagnostic	The process used to identify a particular illness, using a combination of signs and symptoms.
Districts (geographical areas)	Warwickshire is subdivided into 5 districts, for which there is an independent district council responsible for local services. These are North Warwickshire, Nuneaton and Bedworth, Rugby, Warwick and Stratford-upon-Avon.
Eligibility Criteria	A set of requirements that must be met for someone to be considered eligible for something.
Emotional Regulation	Emotion regulation is a term generally used to describe a person's ability to effectively manage and respond to an emotional experience. thrivingwithadhd.com.au/emotional-dysregulation
Exclusion (school)	School exclusion is when a child is removed from school, either on a temporary or permanent basis for disciplinary reasons. www.warwickshire.gov.uk/exclusions www.coventry.gov.uk/attendance-inclusion/inclusion
Impartial	Someone who is impartial is not directly involved in a particular situation, and is therefore able to give a fair opinion or decision about it.
Interoception	Interoception is the feeling of knowing what is going on inside our body, like recognising hunger, body temperature and pain.
Intervention	An intervention is a short-term focused teaching approach that will typically have a specific set of outcomes that have been planned for a child with additional needs.
Mainstream	A mainstream school is any school that principally meets the needs of pupils who do not have special educational needs.
Masking	Hiding or minimising autistic traits to appear less autistic. www.autismunderstanding.scot/information-hub/wellbeing/#masking
Meltdown	A meltdown is an intense response which happens when a person's mind or body becomes overwhelmed by their current situation, and they temporarily lose control of their behaviour. www.autism.org.uk/advice-and-guidance/topics/behaviour/meltdowns

Language used in the booklet	Definitions
Multidisciplinary Team Meeting (MDT)	A meeting where relevant healthcare professionals, who may have different expertise, will review all the evidence obtained from the assessments. A decision will then be made as to whether a person meets the criteria needed for a diagnosis.
Neurodivergent	Having a brain that is built significantly differently from most others. This term is used to describe a range of conditions and differences, including autism, ADHD, developmental Co-Ordination disorder (Dyspraxia) etc.
Neurodiverse	All brains, autistic or not, are neurodiverse, as all brains have subtle differences.
Neurodiversity	This term encompasses all of humanity. All the diverse human neurologies that exist in the world are included and valued equally. “Below are a few different website links and videos explaining some of these views and definitions. Please choose the ones you feel are most relevant for you. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Terms & Definitions www.planetneurodivergent.com/neurodiversity-and-neurodivergent-basic-terminology - Explanation by Genius Within www.geniuswithin.org/what-is-neurodiversity - Understanding terminology neurodiversity2.blogspot.com/p/what.html - Explanation for Children youtu.be/HOoASAnYvKc - Explanation for Adults youtu.be/xsfml3yVh1g - Explained by Clinician youtu.be/FHFwAwT1RQw
Neurotype	"Neurotypes are groupings of similar brain structures. OR A type of brain, in terms of how a person interprets and responds to social cues, etc."
Paediatrician	Paediatricians are doctors who specialise in medical conditions affecting children and young people.
Peer support	Peer support is when people use their own experiences to help each other.
Personalised	Means that something has been created to meet the individual needs of a specific person.
Pica	"Pica is defined as an abnormal craving for non-food substances such as dirt, grass, paint, or clay."
Provider	A person or thing that is giving a service

Language used in the booklet	Definitions
Psychiatrist	Psychiatrists are medical doctors who are experts in mental health. They specialise in diagnosing and treating people with mental illness.
Reasonable Adjustment	Changes that can be made that allow people with disabilities or health conditions to access the same opportunities and services as everyone else, where possible.
Self-harm	Self-harm is when somebody intentionally damages or injures their body.
Self-referral	Self-referral means people are able to refer themselves to a health service without having to see their GP first.
Sensory Response	A sensory response is how we react to the signals our senses send to our brain. Neurodivergent people often over or under react to these signals.
Shutdown	Shutdowns are a response to a person feeling overwhelmed. Their brain goes into a protective mode, where it 'shuts off' for an undetermined amount of time. Individuals experiencing shutdown may not feel able to move and can appear completely still, may struggle to communicate, and may withdraw to somewhere away from the cause of their shutdown. www.autismparentingmagazine.com/manage-autism-shutdown
Social Enterprise	Social enterprises are businesses that put the interests of people and the planet ahead of profit.
Special education needs and disabilities	The difficulties and disabilities that can affect a someone's ability to learn.
Spectrum	A spectrum in the context of autism refers to the broad range of different characteristics and experiences relating to being autistic. Every autistic person's experience is different; they're likely to show some, but not all of the characteristics associated with autism, and may show them to very different degrees.
Stimming	An action that gives sought after sensory feedback, and often helps a person to regulate how they are feeling, or is used as a way of managing a situation which may be stressful. Examples include; listening to the same songs repetitively, hand flapping, tapping, rocking, or repeating words or noises.
Traded services	Education settings pay for traded services to carry out work for them.
Webchat Functionality	A webchat allows people to communicate with other people online, often on their websites and in real time.
